A Donovan Needed

To the Editor, Evening Post:

I read with interest the article by Eugene Phillips of Mt. Pleasant on Tuesday, Oct. 4.

He is absolutely right about our State Department being very inefficient and all should be fired for the waste and he could have also included our Central Intelligence Agency. They know no more today than they knew the day Sputnik went up, on Oct. 4, 1957. We are still sending up orange crates and the Russians are sending a house and lot to the moon.

Eisenhower and our Central Intelligence wanting an open skies inspection is not effective entirely and more is needed for absolute certainty. It is too bad that we do not have more men like Wild Bill Donovan, who could have cracked the Russian hidden secrets in six months after Sputnik.

I think Sen. Kennedy, if elected President, can probably get us back in the know and he can work with the Irish President Fred Boland of the United Nations. He also probably can get a couple of Irishmen from Brooklyn to secretly invade Russia and get some real facts as to the thrust power formula and materials.

Dowling in West Berlin is doing a good job and has told the Communists what he believes in no uncertain terms. Remember the Irishman Touhey some years ago who beat up eight Russians in Moscow. Well, that's what we need today, so I'm voting for Kennedy.

Religion has nothing to do with my selection as all twenty religions I know about believe in the same God and I believe He likes them all.
